

San Master Trackers

Track and Sign Enhancement Camps

The programme

Koru Camp is delighted to introduce our newest initiative - an immersive Track and Sign Enhancement Camp with San Master Trackers.

Based at our comfortable tented camp in the Mvuu Private Nature Reserve - part of the Greater Kruger - this four day, three night educational programme is ideal for all industry professionals who are actively studying or working in anti-poaching or conservation, including field guides, trackers and rangers.

The inclusive camps will be hosted by two San Master Trackers, considered among the very best trackers in the world, and will prioritise exploring the wilderness on foot with morning and afternoon track and trail activities.

Over four days, the San Master Trackers will share their intimate knowledge of the bush and explain the subtle art of following a trail - indigenous knowledge passed down over generations.

When safe and ethical to do so, there will be opportunities for approaches on big game such as elephants. Finally, during the day, there is time for rest and further study in our camp library alongside traditional activities with our hosts - such as making a primitive bow and arrow and starting a fire through friction.

Why get involved?

- Enhancing bush skills and knowledge for local community members and all industry professionals working in conservation and nature-related industries.
- Encouraging cross-cultural understanding and empowering participants by sharing and celebrating indigenous knowledge.
- Boosting anti-poaching efforts through better skilled rangers
- Upskilling trackers and guides for career growth and employment opportunities.
